Abstract

In this study, we exanimated how learning goal motivation moderate the impact of Need for Closure (NFC) in a goal-directed salience. The present study has conducted hierarchal regression to find out the interaction of NFC and learning goal-oriented motivation. Knowing the interaction of habitual information processing and goal-oriented motivations can assist us to adopt appropriate approaches in the performance-striving process.