

Abstract

Entrepreneurship is related to not only the business-related knowledge and skills, but also the personality trait of an entrepreneur. Personal characteristics in adolescence can be used to predict the entrepreneurship in adulthood. In this paper, the life span development model suggested by Obschonka (Obschonka, 2016) will be used to verify for four Chinese entrepreneurs from Hong Kong and China.

Keywords: Entrepreneurship, Personality, Development, Adolescence, Life Span Model